b) The answer's nothing like it	I solved the sum mentally. (a)
c) Come here and copy me	I have found my mistake. (d)
d) I think I've found the trouble	It is not the correct answer. (b)

Q2. Answer these questions. [Do in Copy]

a) How many attempts did Jack make to solve the sum?

Ans. Jack attempted twice to solve the sum.

b) Why had Jack nothing to show to the teacher?

Ans. Jack had nothing to show to the teacher because he did the calculation in his mind.

c) How did the teacher ask Jack to solve the sum?

Ans. The teacher asked Jack to solve the sum using abacus.

d) What was the easy way that Jack found to solve the sum?

Ans. He went to Miss Clark and copied the answer.

B. Discuss [Pg 14]

2) Jack's parents knew that he had a problem solving a sum. Why do you think they did not solve the sum for him?

Ans. Jack's parents knew that he had a problem solving a sum but they did not solve the sum for him because they wanted him to be an independent child.

3) Jack repeatedly did the sum incorrectly so that the teacher worked it out for him. Do you think getting others to solve your problems is right? Give reasons for your answer.

Ans. No, I don't think getting others to solve our problems is might because assignments or problem sums are given in class for our practice and it helps teachers determine how well the lessons and material are being understood by their students.

c) Read to appreciate [Pg-14]

[Do in Book]

Pick out words from the poem that rhyme with these words. Also, add two more words of your own for each.

1) Head instead spread bread

2) Three we me He

3) Sun Mum Drum Bum

Now, write a stanza of your own using rhyming words

weavers, weaving at break of day,
why do you weave a garment so gay?
Blue as the wing of a halcyon wild,
we weave the robes of a new-born child.
